Dear Sir,

In this scenario, we will only able to witness and record the weighment, like shipper nominated surveyor do. In other words, the shipper's weighbridge figure can only be compared with draft survey figure.

Weighbridge validity (not accuracy) is by checking it's calibration certificate provided.

Thank you and best regards,
Koco

Dear sir,

Regarding across verification of their weighbridge, we have already checked with cargo supplier for random checking but they did not accept to perform reasoning practical difficulties in handing cargo and port operation system. We presume that problem is with their weighbridge scale can't say for sure on it's accuracy unless verified with another weighbridge.

Supplier would load the cargo based on shore weight recorded at their weighbridge under the supervision of supplier nominated surveyor and result of other weighbridge shall not be considered by them. In that case how you can perform to differentiate with their surveyor for weight determination shore basis.

Kindly advise.

Regards/Sivasankar

Dear Mr. Sivasankar

Many thanks for the nomination, as we discussed yesterday, if you require us to attend shore weighment, it is important to let us have permission from shipper to also cross check their weighbridge reading, though we can do assignment with similar scope even if cross checking of weighbridge not permitted, should this is acceptable to you

Only attending to draft survey at load port, will not solve your purpose of minimizing shortages as we will have no information to trace back the actual loaded cargo basis shore

We await your instructions

Regards
Manoj
